CLOAKS AND SUITS.
Some of the coming styles in Jackets, Mantles and Wraps.
Jackets have become something of the breast which reaches to the arm-holes, garnitures are corded forward from top to bottom and mantles with corded fronts are purchased as willingly as those which are corded all over. The mantle is not, however, that the sleeves are entirely corded. It is therefore not necessary that the mantle itself should be corded, and plain mantles have been ordered with belt trimming and corded sleeves. A two-color combination cord ornament is very effective mode mantle being corded with mode and brown, while gray is corded with gray and black. The sleeves have the same ornamentation, or plain sleeves are used which are also corded. Fine light-colored chenille cording is very effective on dark velvet, and many garments have been ordered which have this ornamentation on the sleeves or shawl. Embroideries on velvet sleeves, shaded squares and stars have also been shown favorable. A corded favorite is a corded design on black velvet or cloth applique, but this can only be used on small surfaces.
Metal effects are also used, but are not made too prominent. Greek sleeves on jackets are entirely corded, other styles not being salable.

Amusing Tricks of the Birds.
"I was much amused one afternoon," says an observant friend, "by a little family scene on a twig of an elm tree.
A fly-catcher had her tiny brood of five, just out of the nest, all perched in a row. She was feeding them, and the little birds took their ration with great content, as often as the mother saw an insect and flew back with the morsel to each open beak in turn. The regularity with which she kept account, feeding one after the other, in exact order, from top to bottom of the row, was very interesting. Presently a small chap grew impatient, and he saw the mother was away fluttered over and crowded itself into the place next to the bird last fed—exactly as he had planned to get the next fly. He sat there looking very sober and innocent when the mother returned, but she saw the trick at once, and gave the fly to the right bird, whisking the interloper (as I fancied) with her wing as she passed him, by way of cuffing his ears. Probably he was the ruler of the family, and she knew him too well."—Boston,

MR. DEPEW'S INDUSTRY.
Rejuvenating Effect of His Presence on a Latter Day Man.
I have often heard people express their wonder that Chauncey Depew can get through such an extraordinary amount of work every day and still have plenty of time for dining out at night. He boasts the complexion of a sixteen-year-old girl, and his eyes are bright, snappy, and full of life. Doubtless a great share of the details of his work are taken off his hands by Mr. Duval, who is the most sagacious and energetic of private secretaries known to public life since Colonel Lamont's retirement.
The rest Mr. Depew does himself. I saw an illustration of his methods this week.
On one of the hottest nights of the week—and there were some scorchers—I happened to miss a train on my central road by the fraction of a minute, and as I had foretold my dinner in the wild hope of catching the train I felt a depression of spirits which was in inverse ratio to the height of the thermometer. I directed across the street to the nearest place and entered a long, narrow and low-ceilinged cafe. Twenty or thirty dejected looking men with their waistcoats unbuttoned, their collars loosened and their legs stretched out, were sitting at long tables, and eating to eat. A crew of frowny waiters lagged to and fro and the cashier leaned back in his chair fanning himself languidly. I ordered something to eat and sat there in stolid seclusion of a corner trying to summon up enough energy to go down town and attend to some important work I had in hand. It was imperative, and yet I made up my mind to let it go by the board, and was sitting there fully resolved to do no more that night when the door was opened suddenly and a strongly built, square-shouldered man strode in, glanced rapidly about, selected a table that stood apart and taking off his hat, revealed the domestic-like forehead and thickly thatched brow of Chauncey Depew. A small, active and alert young man who accompanied Mr. Depew dropped the valises he was carrying on the floor, handed the famous railroad president a big bundle of papers, and slipping out his cigar lighted it. Let it slightly brown, and he was a stenographer. He was a good one, too.
For an hour he never raised his head from the book nor asked a single question. His pencil moved with machine-like regularity from one side of the page to the other until the book was filled with notes. As for Mr. Depew, he offered a picture of energy, intellectuality and health which was vividly accentuated by the groups of fagged, listless and discontented men in the room. He sat perfectly erect, with his papers in one hand, while he occasionally passed his handkerchief over his forehead with the other, dictating with indefatigable evenness and emphasis.
The play of his features and the constantly alternating series of expressions almost gave an index of the character of the letters he dictated. One paper after another was disposed of, and in exactly an hour the correspondence was completed. Mr. Depew arose, handed a liberal fee to the waiter, bowed courteously to the cashier and strode out.
His exhibition of energy and vitality was not without effect. The waiter braced up, the cashier began balancing his books, a number of the drowsy butlers and their waitresses and straightened up in their chairs and I lighted a large cigar, clinched on the bow of a Fourth avenue car and went down to tackle the work I had decided to shirk before Chauncey Depew had set us all a good example.—Black-ly Hall, in Brooklyn Eagle.

DOMESTIC CONCERNS.
—Buttercup Sponge Cake: Dissolve one-third of a cupful of crystal gelatine in two cupsful of cold milk, and let it stand to the boiling point; then pour it slowly over the beaten yolks of two eggs to which two tablespoonfuls of sugar have been added. When the custard thickens add the beaten whites of the eggs and one tablespoonful of lemon extract, then pour it into a mold. This may be served with any cream jelly.— Orange Juice Fanner.
—A new form of fancy work now engaging the attention of amateurs is silver wire filigree. Flowers and ornaments are made of the ductile material.
The material consists of plain and twisted silver of plated wire, in two sizes, and small beads of various shapes.
The work is done after a drawn design by means of strong pliers with broad jaws, a punch, a thick and thin knitting pin or needle. The thick wire is used for the framework, and the slender wire for securing the beads, making spirals and tendrils. Ladies' combs are very tastefully ornamented in this way.
—Yankee Blade.

Delicious Orange Custard.
Take four sweet oranges, one pint of sweet milk, one large tablespoonful of cornstarch, three eggs and one cup of sugar. Use only the juices of the oranges and the stiff pulp, which must be cut fine. Moisten the cornstarch with a little of the milk, and put the rest where it will boil. Mix with the cornstarch the yolks of the eggs and two-thirds of the sugar, and then strain to the boiling milk. Cook like a custard.
Sprinkle the rest of the sugar over the oranges after they have been peeled and cut fine, and when the custard is done pour it over them, and cover with a soft frosting made of the white of the eggs. Let it slightly brown, and then set it away in a cool place until ready for use. This makes a delicious and easily prepared dessert.—Housewife.

EXPENSIVE WOOING.
Young Gentlemen Called Robbed by the Father of Their Sweethearts.
"I issued a warrant this afternoon for the arrest of a man on a very peculiar charge," said an up-town police magistrate, last evening, "and as there is no likelihood of his being captured, I violate no ethics in telling you about it."
"This man, who has heretofore been looked upon as a hard-working, honest mechanic, is the father of two daughters, both of whom received young gentlemen callers at their home. During the winter these young men, when they started to go home one evening, found their overcoats missing from the rack in the hallway. The theft was reported to the police, who blamed it on sneak thieves. One of these young men had no less than three overcoats stolen during the winter, and the other lost two, besides his hat. Fifteen other young men, who had made informal calls, also missed their coats. The father of the girls was the most active in denouncing the thief when the thefts were discovered."
"Two weeks ago all of the coats were found at a down-town pawnbroker's office, and the description of the man who pawed them tallied exactly with that of the father of the girls. Whether he got wind of the discovery I do not know, but for some reason he moved away very suddenly while the young men were discovering whether they should secure

SUMMER IN INDIA.
How Dwellers in Oriental Countries Manage to Keep Cool.
The Rajahs of India have got the art of keeping cool down to a science. One of the finest cities of the Far East is that of Jeypore. It is the capital of a native State. All of its buildings are one-story, and they are all built after one style of architecture. The palace of the Rajah is in vast gardens through which rivers of water flow in marble beds, and in which luxuriant flowers and trees of the tropics bloom. The harem of the Rajah of Jeypore looks out upon this garden, and its fair ladies are kept cool by fanning-mills, turned by hand. It takes a score of men to turn the cranks to keep these maidens cool, and man-power has much to do with the refrigeration of the East. There are thousands of foreigners, American, English, German and French, now at work in Asia, and each of these does his

Chills And Fever.
When a person gets the chills and fever, they don't want to take medicine that does them no good. That don't feel like doing such a foolish thing. They want a medicine that is safe and one that is sure. Well, there is one remedy that while being perfectly harmless, has never failed and never will fail to completely cure chills and fever, and that remedy is Smith's Tonic Syrup. It is made by Dr. John Bull, of Louisville, Ky., and is as sure to cure chills and fever as daylight is to follow darkness. In the malarial season it is an excellent remedy to have handy.
A single dose will check a cold and allay feverish symptoms. Every intelligent family should keep it for their household and use it as a preventive of colds and malaria, as well as a quick cure.

city. However ingenious play-writers may be in inventing plots and situations, they seldom add new characters to the stage. Joseph Surface appears in many plays and under many disguises, and so does his brother Charles.
The world assumes that the smooth, well-spoken man who most closely follows the rules of polite society is a hypocrite, and that his frank, hearty brother, though full of faults, has a good heart and will come out right in the end. In spite of the dramatists this is not always the case. Sometimes it is the smooth man with the coarse jest and the jovial manner who is the hypocrite playing a part. He has learned enough to know what manner of man is accounted honest and trusted, and he seeks to imitate that type, saying upright things that men should say, and doing unkindnesses of their true feelings and thoughts because these may be unjust to others; it is right that they should treat all men with courtesy whom they meet on terms of equality; it is right that they should be agreeable to strangers or chance acquaintances in whose company they may be thrown. All these things, which constitute polite behavior, are consonant with truth and honesty. It is only when they are carried to extremes not required by any rules of polite society that they savor of hypocrisy. On the other hand, the man who gives blunt expressions to his opinions, who is inconsiderate of other feelings and takes pride in "speaking his mind" may be sincere and honest, but does not show that regard for his fellows which he ought to express. His conduct is not to be commended, however much one may respect his honesty of purpose. His imitators are simply intolerable. They have not even the poor excuse of being sincere in their boorishness, but are hypocrites without grace of manner.—Baltimore Sun.

ABOUT HANDKERCHIEFS.
A Collection Illustrating the Development of Manners in Society.
There was recently exhibited in Paris preparatory to sale by auction, a collection of pocket-handkerchiefs which had occupied its owner many years in the getting together.
Handkerchiefs appear at the first glance to be singular and unprofitable objects for a collector's fancy, but the collection exhibited at Paris seemed to prove that they could be made to tell an interesting story, illustrating the development of manners in modern society.
The most ancient handkerchief in this collection was merely a bit of silk tissue, used many centuries ago by priests at the altar. For centuries, indeed, priests were the only persons in the European world who used handkerchiefs for any purpose, and they used them only at the altar, and there only for the sake of propriety.
This handkerchief of the altar was called a neal. It was carried by the priest in his girdle, and left with the vestments of worship when the service was done.
Presently the grand ladies of the court began to provide themselves with small squares of silk. The next step was to embroider the edges of these squares. And soon their convenience recommended them so highly that gentlemen connected with the various European courts in some measure adopted them.
As handkerchiefs were still carried only by the rich and noble, it became the fashion to decorate them with armorial bearings and crests.
Throughout the most elegant periods of the "age of chivalry," handkerchiefs, or any substitute for them in the way of such nature provided, were utterly unknown. Elaborate books of etiquette and treatises upon manners were written long before either handkerchiefs or table-forks were thought of. In the early book on manners, written for lords and ladies of the court, advises the employment of the left hand in the service which the handkerchief now performs, because the right hand is most frequently employed in taking food from the dish. Only "rude persons," we are told by this treatise, use the right hand in this service!
Embroidered handkerchiefs had come into use in Shakespeare's time, as is proved by the important part which Desdemona's handkerchief—or "napkin," as it is called—plays in the tragedy of "Othello." But as yet the possessors of handkerchiefs were lords and ladies.
Even in the seventeenth century the common people knew no such luxury.
One of the most curious notes about the early use of the handkerchief in polite society is the evidence we have in literature that the article was frequently lent, and passed from hand to hand for use.
But this was in the days when soap was unknown, and when even high-born ladies of the court bathed so seldom that the practice was hardly known. We read much of the elegance and refinement of the old courtly days, but these elegances did not include many of the common refinements that the poorest people of the present day practice.—Youth's Companion.

You tread on the "trail" of a lady and "e-r-r-rip" go the gathens. In tremulous sentiments, plaintive as the "last sigh of the Moor," you solicit forgiveness; and she—no, beg pardon, she does not forgive you, but with a scowl that reminds you of the most vindictive of the Don's tormentors, she passes on, thinking daggers, but saying nothing.
If you wish to insult a man without impairing your personal safety, disarm him in advance with this saving clause, as thus: "Beg your pardon, sir, but what you say can not be the fact; it is utterly impossible." The deprecatory prefix is like a whiff of chloroform because the pulling of a tooth. Under the influence of a full dose of it we have known a regular fire-eater to endure the lie circumstantial and even the lie direct without wincing. "If" is a good pain-killer in some cases, but you may have any quantity of moral vitriol in the face of a person you dislike, with perfect impunity, if you accompany the aspiration with plenty of "beg-your-pardons." The pardoning power is the most royal of human prerogatives. It tickles one's vanity to exercise it.—N.
Y. Ledger.

PRONOUNCED HOPELESS, YET SAVED.
From a letter written by Mrs. Ann E. Hays of Groton, S. D., we quote: "I was taken with a bad cold, which settled upon my lungs, cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption.
Four doctors gave me up saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not save myself from this earthly life, I would meet my absent ones above.
My husband was advised to get Dr.
King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles; it has cured me and thank God I am now a well and happy woman." Trial bottles free at the H. B. Garner Drug Co., regular size, 50c and $1.00.

EUPEPSY.
This is what you ought to have, in fact you must have it, to fully enjoy life. Thousands are searching for it daily, and mourning because they find it not. Thousands upon thousands of dollars are spent annually by our people in the hope that they may attain this boon. And yet it may be had by all. We guarantee that Electric Bitters, if used according to directions and the use persisted in, will bring you Good Digestions and outlast the demon Dyspepsia and instead instead Eupepsy. We recommend Electric Bitters for Dyspepsia and all diseases of Liver, Stomach, and Kidneys. Sold at 50c and $1.00 per bottle by H. B. Garner's Pharmacy.

THE TALLEMAN'S VIRTUE OF THE PHRASE IL-LUSTATED BY VARIOUS EXAMPLES.
What tallismans virtue there is in the three brief words, "Beg your pardon," you dig your elbow into a gentlemen's ribs in making your way through a crowd, and as he turns, irate, to administer the "uppercut," you utter the magic phrase in deprecating tones.
Down drops his arm, his honor is satisfied, and, notwithstanding the blue mark

Hood's Sarsaparilla has a steadily increasing popularity, which can only be won by an article of real merit. Give it a trial.

Military Matters.

"BOWLING GREEN, KY., Sept. 18, Special Order, No. 1.

Capt. JOSEPH HENRY, Comd'g Co. "D," 3rd Regt. K. S. G., Hopkinsville, Ky.

I pursuant of special order No. 5, issued by Adj. Hill, you are hereby ordered to hold an election for Colonel on Friday, September 26th, and report result to me.

T. J. SMITH, Lieut. Col. Comd'g 3rd Regt."

In pursuance of above order the members of Co. "D" are hereby ordered to report at their armory at 8 o'clock on above date for the purpose of holding said election.

JOSEPH HENRY, Capt. Comd'g Co. "D," 3rd Regt.

You Take No Risk

In buying Hood's Sarsaparilla, for it is everywhere recognized as the standard building-up medicine and blood purifier. It has won its way to the front by its own intrinsic merit, and has the largest sale of any preparation of its kind. Any honest druggist will confirm this statement. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy anything else instead. Be sure to get Hood's.

Pythians Minstrels.

The Pythians Minstrels are faithfully rehearsing for their entertainment to be given Oct. 10th, and the entire interest manifested by every member tends to insure the success of their efforts and make the affair an event to be remembered. In the presentation of the program, the management intended having the stage elaborately decorated, while with the new and bright songs and dances, specialties, farces, etc., will make the performance an interesting and amusing one. With such well known talent as is possessed by the Steinlager Brothers, Messrs. Tobin, Garity and others, it is needless to say that there is every promise of an audience being thoroughly entertained and amused.

No less than half a dozen tobacco barns are burned in this county every season, while firing tobacco. These annual misfortunes are already beginning to occur. Mrs. Ann Rickman's barn burned last week being the first. The farmers cannot be too careful about curing their tobacco and the work should in no case be entrusted to careless and inefficient hands. The tobacco crop this year is a good one and will bring, it is believed, a higher price than for three years, and is worth taking care of.

Will Williams, col., was arrested in Guthrie Tuesday morning and placed in jail here, charged with breaking open and entering a box car loaded with merchandise at the depot early Tuesday morning. A brakeman discovered the thief and fastened him in the box to Guthrie, where he gave him up to Marshal Jackson, who sent him back at once.

CREAM OF NEWS.

Justice Was Speedy.

Andrew Parkes, col., stole four chickens from Mr. Polk Canaler yesterday, and in less than two hours was landed in the work house, where he will serve out a sentence of 30 days.

Stole a Jennet.

Jas. Ogley, col., was arrested in Todd county Wednesday and lodged in jail here on a charge of mule stealing. Ogley captured a jennet belonging to Mr. Polk Canaler which jumped out of a lot on the evening of the first Monday in this month, and taking it to Elkhorn traded it off. It is likely that a special grand jury will be empaneled to pass on the case.

Charged With Horse Stealing.

Monday night special officer T. S. Winfree, of Casky, came to the city and arrested Jas. L. Allen on a warrant charging him with having stolen a horse from a party in Robertson county, Tenn. Allen was taken before the Guthrie court where an examining trial was held, and from there he was ordered sent to jail at Springfield to await the action of the grand jury.

Dwelling House Burned.

The dwelling house of Mr. Tim Brown, lying near Crofton, was burned Wednesday morning, together with nearly all the household effects of the family. Mrs. Brown was the only person at home when the fire was discovered and only saved a few articles of furniture which were near the front door. A defective flue in the cook room caused the fire. The loss is about $1,000. No insurance.

Residence Burned.

The two-story frame residence on the farm of Esq. Jas. M. Clark, six miles from town on the Clarksville pike, was burned about midnight on Tuesday night. The house was occupied by a tenant named Scott, who succeeded in getting out most of his household effects. In one room the owner of the house had a lot of furniture stored and this was destroyed. The house was worth perhaps $2,500 and was insured with Long, Winfree & Kelly for $2,000 in the Royal. It is not known just how the fire originated. When discovered the flames were well under way and the lateness of the hour and the absence of any assistance made it impossible to do anything towards saving the house. All that could be done by the tenants was to remove the contents as far as they were able.

The Fugitive Heard From.

Omar S. Brown, who ran away from Hopkinsville on the night of Sept. 18, was seen in Alton, Ill., the following day by Gus Hall, formerly a resident of this city. Mr. Hall knew him well and had a talk with him, not knowing at the time that Brown was leaving Kentucky and perhaps the United States because of his evil-doings. He claimed to be en route to Western Missouri to visit an uncle, but the probabilities are that he was headed towards Canada, as he could have reached any part of Missouri from St. Louis without going further north in another State.

No steps are being taken to apprehend him and it is not probable that a reward will be offered large enough to induce an officer to follow and bring him back. We have probably seen the last of Bro. Brown in this part of the country.

By-the-way, isn't it about time for the City Council and the Board of School Trustees to begin to purge themselves?

The Methodist Conference.

The 46th session of the Louisville Conference was held at Bowling Green this week. It adjourned Wednesday to meet at Cadiz next year. Following are the assignments for the Princeton and Russellville districts: PRINCETON DISTRICT.

Presiding Elder, D. S. Campbell. Princeton, Joseph S. Chandler. Marion, S. K. Breeding. Shady Grove, J. M. Thrasher. Carrollsburg, W. H. Archey. Smithland, A. S. Newton. Eddyville, R. C. Love. Kuttawa, J. V. Guthrie. Cadiz, L. E. Campbell. Cantor, R. L. McConnell. Wallonia, W. F. Hogard. Lafayette, V. P. Thomas.

RUSSELLVILLE.

Presiding Elder, G. H. Hays. Russellville, D. L. Collis. Adairville, I. W. Emerson. Elkton, J. T. Rushing. Fairview, D. S. Bowles. Hopkinsville, G. W. Lyon. Allensville, J. P. Stubblefield. Auburn, F. H. Davis. Lewisburg, T. C. Frogg. Trenton, B. F. Orr. Sharon Grove, L. F. Davidson. Crofton Mission, Jas. L. Stamper. Professor in Vanderbilt University, Gross Alexander.

Rev. J. W. Lewis, it will be seen, goes to Bowling Green and Rev. G. W. Lyon comes here in his place. Mr. Lyon is one of the best revivalists in the Conference. He assisted in a meeting here a year or two ago. Rev. H. M. Ford, of the Fairview Circuit, is succeeded by Rev. D. S. Bowles. Rev. E. W. Bottomly is assigned to Louisville and Rev. J. W. Bigham to Henderson.

Officer John Brachey left Wednesday afternoon for Hopkinsville, in charge of Mary Ann Jordan, of the Beech Grove neighborhood, who was adjudged a lunatic about two weeks ago.—Owensboro Inquirer.

HERE AND THERE.

Born to the wife of Joe Forsyth Sunday, a 12 pound boy.

R. M. Woodbridge, livery, feed & sale stable, Fritz' stand. Telephone 144.

A marriage license was granted R. A. Boyd Wednesday to wed Miss Mildred A. Boyd.

Dr. Jas. A. Young was called to Kelly Tuesday to visit Mr. George Rodgers, who is quite sick with fever.

Rev. A. C. Dorris will preach the funeral of Jas. Meacham and wife at Kelly Baptist church on the second Sunday in October.

Sept. 24 was the Jewish Yom Kippur, or day of atonement, and all of the Israelites closed their stores in observance of the holiday, Wednesday.

Rev. J. W. Lewis will remain on Sunday and fill the pulpit at the Methodist church for Rev. Mr. Lyons, who will arrive next week and take charge of the church.

Rev. J. N. Prestridge will preach at the Christian church Sunday night, which will be his last sermon in Hopkinsville before his departure for his new pastorate in Winchester, Ky.

Maj. Breathitt is expecting the approval of his bond every day, when he will at once take charge of the postoffice. The change will most likely occur by the 1st of October.

Rev. M. W. Tabor will preach at the Universalist church Sunday morning next on the subject of "The Divine Fragments," and in the evening on "If Universalism is true, what is the use of preaching?"

The express office has been moved into its handsome new quarters in the east room of the Mayson Building. Mr. Tibbs has ordered new office furniture, which will make the office one of the handsomest in the city.

Mr. Ed Higgins has sold his large draft horse, Monarch, to William Carr, of Sumner county, Tenn. The price paid was $300. Monarch was one of the finest breeders in the state and can show up some very fine colts in this county.

"Maud Muller" at the Opera House to-morrow night will be a genuine treat. The little comedienne, Annie Euton, never fails to please and entertain and she comes this time with a good play and a strong and well balanced company. Don't fail to attend. Prices as usual.

Read what Ben Rosenbaum has to say in this issue. Mr. Rosenbaum has just returned from the east where he selected one of the best stocks of dry goods, clothing, notions, boots, shoes, etc., ever brought to this city, and he proposes selling them cheap for cash. It will pay you to examine this excellent stock, as money saved in buying cheap is money made.

To-day is the last day for taking depositions in the Lander-Brown contest, which comes up for trial next Wednesday. Judge Brown has had the city limits surveyed and a satisfactory located with results very satisfactory to himself. He is confident that his majority will not be less than 10 votes—an increase of 30—when the contesting board throws out non-resident and other illegal votes.

Mr. Walter O'Neil, of Longview, is the owner of a two-year-old colt of fine proportions that promises to make an enviable record. His color is a very dark iron gray. He was sired by McDonald, whose ancestors have made very low records. Mr. O'Neil has other fine stock of which he should be proud, but this excellent animal is an especially fine and stylish fellow with large bone and muscle and shows great powers of endurance.

The Public Schools now have 530 pupils in daily attendance and the Colored Schools about 300 more. South Kentucky College has started out with 80 matriculates, and other private schools in the city have probably 50 more. In the various schools in the city there are now nearly 1,000 young people daily treading "the flowery pathway of knowledge."

Hopkinsville is distinctively a city of schools and no city in the state has better ones.

Rev. Jno. W. Lewis, who has of late years served two four-year assignments as pastor of the Methodist church of this city—Rev. E. W. Bottomley filling the interregnum—has been assigned to the church at Bowling Green for the next two years. Bro. Lewis is dearly beloved by his brethren in this city and nothing but the inexorable law of the church that compels a change every four years reconciles them to his departure. He is one of the ablest and most fervent preachers and at the same time one of the best and purest men in his conference and the good wishes of many warm friends in and out of his congregation go with him to his new home.

Harry Clark, the young man who was tried for his liberty this week, was greatly gratified at the verdict in his case, by which he escaped the penitentiary. He remained in jail from Saturday evening till Wednesday and much of the time was spent in fervent prayer. He is thoroughly penitent and now that he is again at liberty has declared his intention to lead a different life in the future. In conversation with a KENTUCKIAN representative, he said: "I have had too much to do with bar-rooms, and liquor has got me into more than one scrape in the past. I am done with whiskey now and am going to go home and leave off my bad habits and work hard to support my family. I want to lead an upright and religious life."

An election will be held at the Armory to-night to vote for a successor to Col. S. H. Ford, resigned. Lieut. Colonel Smith, of Bowling Green, is likely to be elected Colonel and Capt. Henry, of Company D, promoted to his place.
